A MOST INTERESTING LETTER

From the Chaplain of the Albany Pentientiary, Refer ed to in Yesterday's Paper. I make the following statement in simple justice 'to you, and to the public at large. I look upon the facts I am about to relate as 'among the most remarkable sin the age of miracles. Had I heard them from another should have asked for proof, yet every word may be relied upon as absolutely true.

For many years my wife had been the victim of nervone Dyspepsia, of the chronic, distressing and apparently incurable type, from which so many of her sex suffer languish and die. It was all the worse because the tend ency to it was inherited. She had been under the systerratic treatment of many of the best physicians in New-York and Brooklyn and elsowhere for twenty year with only temporary relief. Although had enough at all times, she was always worse in the autumn-and the eating of fruits (often recommended to dyspeptics) in her case produced flatulency and excessive pain. In fact there were few, if any, kinds of food that did not distreher, so diseased, sensitive and torpid were all the organs of digestion. The usual symptoms of dysgepsis, with its concomitant allments, were all present-bad taste in the mouth, dull eyes, cold feet and hands, the sense of a load upon the stomach, tenderness on pressure, indigestion, giddiness, great weakness and prostration, and fugitive pains in the sides, chest and back. If there was ever a case of Dyspepsia which to all intents and purposes seemed altogether hopeless it was here. I have often rises in the night and administered stimulants merely for the sake of the slight and transient relief they gave. What her aggregate experience was I may safely leave to the imagination of those who have suffered in a similar way Certainly no one else can begin to understand it. After she had undergone about five years of this ap parently endless misery, did she take a turn for the better I Far from it She grew worse if anything could b worse. Intermittent malarial fever set in, complicating the case, and making every symptom more pronounce and intense. By this time the pneumo-gastric nerve had become very seriously involved, and she had chronic Gastritis and also what I may be allowed to call chroni intermittent mularial fever all at once. Por the latter the physicians prescribed the good, old-fashfoned sheethor remedy, Quinine, gradualty increasing the doses until-incredible as it may seem-she actually took THIETY GRAINS A DAY FOR DAYS IN SUCCESSION. This could not last. The effect of the quinine was, if possible, almost as bad as the two-fold disease which was wearing away her strength and her life. Quintue poisoning was painfully evident, but the fever was there still. Aimost every day there came on the characteristic chill and racking beadache, followed by the usual weakness and

Need I tell you I despaired -not merely of her recovery -but of any appreciable rest in this long and dreary ex-perience ! Somewhat less than a year ago my wife showed signs of such utter exhaustion that her friends indulged the most serious apprehensions. About this time I met socially my friend Mr. Norton, a member of the firm of Chauncey Titus & Co., brokers, of Albany, who, on hearing from me these facts, said: "Why, I have been through almost the same thing, and have got over it." "What cured you !" I asked careriy. "Kaskine," he said, "try it for your wife." I had seen Kaskine ad vertised, but had no more faith in it than I had in saw dust for such a case as hers. Mrs. Hall had no higher opinion, yet on the strength of my friend's recommends tion I got a bottle and began its use as directed. Now recall what I have already said as to her ther condition, and then read what follows: Under the Kaskine treatment all the dyspeptic symptoms showed instant improvement, and the daily fever grow less and soon ceased altogether. Side by side these diseases vanished, as side by side they had tortured their victim for ten years-the Dyspepsia alone having, as I have said, existed for twenty years. Her appetite improved from week to week until she could eat and digest the average food that any well person takes, without any suffering or inconvenience. With renewed assimilation of food came, of course, a steady increase in fiesh, until she now looks like her original self. She still takes Kaskine occasionally, but with no real need of it, for she is well. I consider this result a scientific miracle, and the "New Quinine" is entitled to the credit of it, for from the time she began with Kaszine she used no other medicine whatever. If you think a recital of these facts calculated to do good you are welcome to make them public. (Rev.) JAS. L. HALL. Chaplain Albany, N. Y. Penitentiary. To the Kaskine Co., 54 Warren-st., New-York.

P. S. -Sometimes letters of this bind are published without authority, and in case any one is inclined to question the genuineness of the above statement I will cheerfully reply to any communications addressed to me JAS. L. HALL.

Apollinaris "THE QUEEN OF TABLE WATERS."

Dr. JOHN C. PETERS, of Madison Avenue, says:

"There is another matter that has much to do with the health of a city, and that is its water. We doctors sometimes think it unwise to be perfectly frank with our patients, but I have no doubt that in the vast majority of the cases of typhoid that have been so numerous, each patient has swallowed water that was contaminated with the leakage of drains or cesspools. Without desiring to be an alarmist I further say that Croton water is not entirely free from this."
